Schubert Scenes
Three Songs for Trombone and Piano

Franz Schubert
arranged by David Fetter

Very Slowly $\frac{4}{4}$ $q = 56$

The night is still.
The streets are quiet.

In this house lived my sweetheart.

But the house still stands in the same place.

with foreboding

Also there stands a person staring upward,

he wrings his hands by pain

long ultimately powerful crescendo

I was horrified when I saw his face

the moon

another powerful crescendo

You, my double,

you, pale fellow

why do you mock love's sorrow

which tormented me in this place

so many a night,
in times gone by?

1. Lightly imploring my songs through the night to you;
2. Hear the nightingales, ah, they appeal, to you

Into the still grove below
With their sweet pleadings
Dear, come to me!
They plead for me.

pp in the moonlight;
They know love's pain.

f fear not, Dear,
every soft heart.

mf cresc.
Let also your heart be moved,

f Trembling, I await you!

p come, give me joy!
